Two bedroom bungalow to reform into your dream holiday home. This two bedroom bungalow has loads of potential for the right person to make it really special. Enter the property into the little south-facing courtyard, which can be a really pretty space and a great spot to enjoy relaxing in the Spanish sun. Up a few steps and you have another spacious terrace - great for alfresco dining. Inside the house you will find a living room and open-plan kitchen. There are two good-sized bedrooms, with one opening onto an inner terrace. The house also has a large basement, great for storage. The property is situated in a popular area of Quesada, known locally as Harry's Bar after a well-known bar in the area. The house is just around the corner to the municipal swimming pool, which is free for people living in Quesada to use during the summer months and only a couple of euros for visitors. There is a supermarket just down the road for all your daily provisions. Ciudad Quesada is an extremely popular town, and plays host to second-home-owners and residents from many different countries. It is particularly loved by British, Belgians, French,...
